

Sustainable Development and Engineering Economics Journal is now in CyberLeninka

The Sustainable Development and Engineering Economics journal is now placed on the scientific electronic library "CyberLeninka".

The CyberLeninka website (cyberleninka.ru) is a popular scientific electronic library known in the Russian Federation and abroad. This is one of the 5 main world archives of the open type. Among the legal scientific and educational portals of the Russian-speaking Internet, CyberLeninka is the largest site.

Materials from scientific collections and journals included in the list of scientific publications of the Higher Attestation Commission of the Russian Federation, dissertations for academic degrees, and materials of publications not only of the Russian Federation, but also of the countries of the former USSR are published here.

SDEE Journal supports the principle of open and publicly accessible science, which guided the creators of the CyberLeninka Internet resource. The information posted here is as accessible as possible to the masses, which will allow the Journal's articles to be distributed to a wider audience.